

Canada is a country in North America. First people living there were Indians. They admired the bald eagle and considered them sacred birds that should be honored for their strength and courage. The Indians called them thunderbirds. They believed thunder came from the flapping of the eagle's wings. Their favorite food is fish, especially salmon.